

12 Reasons We Work from Anywhere

Why do we work from home, remotely or telework?

We'd rather be working or sipping a latte than stuck in traffic, or on a crowded platform.

Things and events happen in everyone's life, and we all need flexibility to balance it.

We have family or other needs that make working remotely more sensible than commuting back and forth.

We have the technology and more opportunities.

We are happier, healthier and focus better when less stressed.

We can all save time, money, reduce congestion... breathe healthier air, if more people work remotely.

We sometimes need fewer interruptions and can be as productive if not more outside an office setting.

We can be inspired by, interact or meet in other settings.

We want to move (or don't want to) – but keep a job/career; we're also able to have more choice in quality job and work opportunities.

We have more to share, contribute from our experiences.

Working remotely is valuable to employers too (see fact sheet).

Working remotely is work – just better!
